 Government of Canada News Release *****

*From the Western Economic Diversification Canada release dated November 25, 2016.
Western Innovation Initiative funding helps companies quickly move their ideas to market.*

The Canadian agriculture sector gets a boost today through the Government of Canada’s investment of $425,000 to further develop and commercialize an innovative no-till seeding system, the CX-6 SMART Seeder. The funding was announced by the Honourable Navdeep Bains, Minister of Innovation, Science and Economic Development and Minister responsible for Western Economic Diversification Canada.

Federal funding will enable Clean Seed Agricultural Technologies Ltd. to further develop the equipment using patented technology that will significantly enhance application control, reduce the over-application of fertilizer and pesticides, and lower fuel usage and input costs.

While the company is headquartered in Burnaby, British Columbia, testing will be conducted in Saskatchewan and the equipment will be manufactured in Manitoba.

The federal contribution will be matched by Clean Seed Agricultural Technologies Ltd.

This investment is one of several successful projects to be announced under the Western Innovation \(WINN\) Initiative. The program provides $100 million in repayable contributions to small- and medium-sized companies in Western Canada. Eligible
